

FEELING MUCH BETTER

THE LONG SUFFERING HERO IS LEFT ALONE BY THE DOCTORS.

With Glad Gleams in His Eyes He Resumes
His Natural Bonhomie—Peaceful Sleeps and Needed Rests—Details and Reminiscences.

NEW YORK, April 11. —Gen. Grant has become so well that all of the doctors withdrew from the house for a time and left him for the first time in many days in the sole care of his family. The bracing weather had a good effect on the general.

subgentleman who knows as much as any one of the medical aspects of Gen. Grant's case said, "It will surprise Gen. Grant's physicians very much if he dies within a week. The chances are that he will live two weeks longer. Of course some unforeseen accident, such as a sudden failure of the heart, may occur and upset my prophecy, but with that exception, I find it correct. Blood poisoning is most to be feared. The physicians are now directing their energies to averting this danger, and will probably succeed in doing so for a couple of weeks at least."

"The second cause of alarm is from exhaustion. The progress of the cancer itself is, I think, the last source of danger. It is now stationary, and has been so for a week. There is no danger of its developing suddenly to become fatal for two months at least. With proper treatment it could be held in abeyance until fall. A hemorrhage is liable to occur at any moment, but I do not think it will alarm the physicians. It can be stopped immediately and before any material damage is done. Gen. Grant's faculties are as clear as they ever were, and he is fully capable of transacting any business that might come to a man in active life. He would be as able to direct the movement of an army in the field to-day as he was twenty years ago, so far as his mental condition is concerned. If I were his Lieut. Gen. I would obey his orders from the sick room as implicitly and with the same confidence as if he were on horseback by my side.

by my side. The only measure shows the effects of his long confinement, and not a greatly as has been represented in some of the newspapers. His face is still as inclined to be flushed as ever, and than pale. There is no new appearance, and sinking below the waist, and in the back of his neck, but that comes mostly from his loss of blood on Tuesday. He is not so much as he was, but I think that is not the worst. His arms and legs have become somewhat thin, and he has lost flesh, but it is far from a condition that is dangerous. His eyes are not as bright as they might be, but there was a gleam in them that I have not seen in a month."

Gen. Grant's condition is unchanged. He slept well during the night, and awoke refreshed. He has taken nourishment as usual. His pulse is 62 and regular; temperature 96.5; respiration 18.

Gen. Grant's condition remains practically the same as during the past three days. The pains in the throat which were reported as having been annoying to him have passed away. The patient's sleep was not so sound and uninterrupted as the night before, but he received several hours' invigorating sleep. He slept in his reclining chair as usual. Dr.

Douglas raised at his side. The impression is general, barring unforeseen circumstances, there is no danger of the end coming for two weeks.

At the door at the residence was General Tuttil of the Seventh regiment of New York veterans. He presented resolutions of sympathy from that body. He was told the general was asleep. The resolutions will be handed him when he awakes. The tilings of the day were interesting and varied. The crowd gathered. It has relieved the street from the too annoying crowds, and left it to the policemen, firemen and reporters. Only occasionally the curious pedestrians are found in front of the house. This is a great relief to the family, or whenever any of them were seen, they were surrounded by a crowd of curious people.

RECOLLECTIONS OF GRANT

Coincidence in the Dates of His Illness and the End of the War.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Those familiar with the history of the last days of the rebellion recall the coincidence in dates of General Grant's illness and the events precluding the surrender of General Lee. Not that the final surrender of the great hero to the imperious conqueror, death, is believed to be so near at hand, it is remembered that on the 8th of April, 1865, twenty years ago, General Grant wrote the following letter, which was the basis of the capitulation of Lee's army:

GENERAL.—Your note of last evening, reply to mine of the same date, assent to the condition on which I will receive the surrender of the army of northern Virginia, has just received. In reply I would say that peace being my great desire, there is but one condition I would insist upon—namely, that the men and officers surrendered should be disqualified for taking up arms against the government of the United States—until properly exchanged. I will meet you, or will designate officers to meet any officers you may name for the same purpose, at any time agreeable to you, for the purpose of arranging definitely the terms upon which the surrender of the army of northern Virginia will interview." After the terms of surrender were settled, Gen. Grant explained that he was advising that Gen. Lee's forces had a number of food and medical supplies, like their captives, were out of rations. Gen. Sheridan replied that he could supply 25,000 rations. Gen. Grant instructed him to send 25,000 rations to Gen. Lee's commissary. After the interview, Lee asked for Gen. Williams, and thanked that officer for kindness shown to his son, Gen. Custis Lee, who had been captured in 1862. Lee left for West Point, Lee and Col. Marshall rode off the federal officers filled the front porch. Col. Marshall is not sure that Gen. Grant was among them, for his thoughts were busy with other matters at the time.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—If Gen. Grant is brought to Washington to be buried the burial ceremonies will be under the direction of Gen. Sheridan. Unless Gen. Grant himself expresses a desire to be buried in a particular place in Washington, Sheridan will also determine the location of his grave. He has had a number of consultations with the War Department regarding the subject. It was thought at first that it would be best to bury him at Arlington, where so many former members of the Union army are buried. Then it was thought that this place would be objectionable, for although Arlington is the property of the government it is upon the soil of a state. More than that, other states might have more of a claim to the place than the federal government, too, it was the soil of a rebellious state. Although there is no one who has been more generous or forgiving to the south than Gen. Grant, it was thought that it would be better to have his remains within the limits of the state of Virginia.

Sherridan was to have him buried upon the government reservation south of the white house, and the burial ground was to be the lot. The objection to this was that any monument which should be placed over the grave would be overlooked by the great Washington monuments which would stand between it and the Potomac. Gen. Sheridan finally decided, subject to the approval of the War Department, to have the body buried on the grounds of the soldiers' home. The great fact surrounding the soldiers' home is one of the most interesting features of the city, and hills of this retreat one can see the entire city of Washington and the stretch of the Potomac from above Georgetown to below the city. The fact that the burial ground could be found, it is further proposed to leave there a lot large enough for the burial of the soldiers of the Civil War.

The funeral ceremonies, excepting probably the Lincoln pageant, will be the most imposing ever witnessed in the history of the country. It will probably equal that, as the heads of the army are united in the greatest of possible efforts to do in the memory of Gen. Grant.

SHOWER OF BIRDS.
Curious Fowls Taken Up and Carried Away in a Storm.

CANTON, Miss., April 11.--A terrific rain and wind storm swept over the central Mississippi. It came from a northwesterly direction and lasted several hours, blowing down trees, fences and outhouses, and in some places washed up corn and other seeds that had been recently planted. At Canton and vicinity a number of strange birds were found lying, or sitting, on the ground, some of them dead and other crippled from being buried against trees, houses and other obstacles.

Many of them were found apparently unjured, although they seemed unable or unwilling to fly any considerable distance. Upwards of a hundred of these birds have been picked up, and, as they are entire strangers to the locality, the supposition is, that they were caught up on the sea coast by the winds and wafted this way. They are about the size of a house crow, and resemble the penguin. They are about the same of the tooth duck, have a head like the game chicken and a bill like the crow. Their legs are short and web-footed; their wings are also short. Their feathers on the neck and back are black and dark green, while those on the breast are of a brighter grey. They are found on the water, or on the land, and make no effort to fly.

No Anti-Mormon Probate.
LANSING, Mich., April 11.—The supreme court has decided that the law providing for anti-mormon wills is in operative and unconstitutional. This law allowed the will to be probated before the death of testator.

Cock Baiting.
ST. PAUL, Minn., April 11.—A cocking main took place between birds from St. Paul and Minneapolis and attracted a large number of the sporting fraternity. Eight battles were fought of which each won four. St. Paul sports were the most judicious of the two parties in betting and carried off most of the money.

Landslide to Death.
ENIZ, Pa., April 11.—The melting snow and spring rains caused a landslide on the banks of Washington. Miss Lillian Smith was carried down with the mass, and huffed in the rushing waters and drowned. Her body was recovered at an ice gorge five miles below.

Swallowed Rat Poison.
NEW YORK, April 11.—During the absence of Judge Samuel M. Chambers, of Jersey City, Mrs. Chambers gave her servant girl a holiday and after her departure from the house swallowed a quantity of rat poison. When the girl returned she summoned a physician, whose efforts to relieve Mrs. Chambers were unsuccessful.

STRAINED RELATIONS BETWEEN ENGLAND AND RUSSIA.

The Bear Not So Anxious to Hug as Its Was.

Peace Talk—London Subsidies—Venice, Russia—Horses and Munitions—Kiel's Rebels—Concessions—Notes.

St. Petersburg, April 11.—The Russian press is almost unanimous in asserting that open hostilities between Russia and England cannot long be delayed. All the papers concur in the opinion that England has been and is again openly accusing the intrigues in India of provoking the quarrel by officials with the Russian government. The Pravda and Iskra of Lumen of secretly urging the English government on the frontier over the tracks in order to force the Russian government to discontinue its pretext for the English occupation of Herat and other important points on an Afghan boundary line.

Rebels north of the palace is evidently the assassin, and some of the more prominent leaders and advocates of war with England, are also endeavoring to exploit the necessity of taking a firm stand, arguing that any back down by Russia at this time would be humiliation and disgrace which would be a source of weakness to the empire.

The Journal de St. Petersburg, the official organ, in an article commenting on the situation, says that the English government's disputes in regard to the Russo-Afghan frontier question is now only to be hoped for. The article says that the English government have reached a stage at which no trifling will be countenanced by either power. If England does not demand too much, a peace agreement will be reached, but if the policy which has already taken place on the border, may yet be hoped for.

In London.

LONDON, April 11.—There has been a decided reaction from the excitement of yesterday and the day before. The feeling is now more ordinary. The conviction is about settled that war is imminent. Judging from the present bitter feeling toward Russia, and the fact that the English government is so perfidy and treachery, as recently exposed, is the hope of the hour. The expedition against the city of St. Petersburg is not yet arrived. The cabinet ministers are in session. Several notes have been exchanged with the Russian minister, and the English government is now waiting for a reply from his office and Gladstone's. No confirmation of the capture of Pendl is yet received. The Russian government has called on by the Central News correspondent with a view of obtaining the latest phrase of the Russian government's policy. The views from his government that confirming later news that that published in the morning papers. The agent of the Russian government is making vigorous attempt to buy all the fast vessels now in port, and are vigorously competing with the agents of the English government in bidding for the most desirable vessels.

The stock market is steady, but comparatively little is doing. Consolids are at 100. The market is generally quiet, with two points of yesterday's decline. The grain markets are strong and advancing.

No report has been received from the explanation has been received as yet.

It is stated that the government is laying hands on the Russian and makes in Canada to service in the east.

It has leaked out that the Russian government was aware of the fighting between the British and the Russian government. It is asserted in well informed quarters here that reports received at St. Petersburg were of the Russian government's intention to force foreign officers, but suppressed pending an official communication, and the foreign officers' and consular agents, who were to be taken as ransom of the official recognition.

The Persian envoy to England attended at the British embassy in London, and was met by Mr. Granville. The object of the interview was to discuss the subject of Persia in connection with the Russian government in England. The Persian minister last Wednesday submitted the views of his government with reference to the proposed Russian making decisions to a sovereign, his assurances and, since he desires to facilitate the operations of the military and naval forces, he is willing to make concessions to Sir Peter Lumsden. It is understood at the interview Mr. Granville intimated to the Persian minister a desire of his majesty's government to have the Persian government with Persia as to the neutrality of the power in case of war.

Kiel's War.

WINNIPEG, April 11.—War has just been received from Battledore of the names of the victims of the Indian massacre at the hands of the Indians. The names are: Lausok and wife; Father Talbot and Father Leunandson; priests; two other men named not named. Mrs. Delaney is a prisoner and has been taken to the Indian reservation. Hudson Bay company's agent, Ward, was brought by Battledore by W. Quinn, a member of the Indian army, who is charged with Persia as to the neutrality of the power in case of war.

Have a message come through. It stated in this message that Battledore is surrounded by 1,000 Indians, but not that he has been killed. The message is reported. The Hudson Bay office has received a message from the Indian agent at Calgary that the Seattle Lake Indians have raised the government warships at that point, and gone to join the rebels.

The Indians on Frog Lake reservation are all Crees, and number about 300. There was a report that the Indians had been driven from Frog Lake, which was in a reservation.

It is not probable that a District Attorney for Kentucky will be appointed until the term of the present incumbent expires, which holds until the 28th of next month.

MISS SWEET, the pension agent at Chicago, who refuses to resign, will probably be removed and her place filled by Mrs. Mulligan widow of a Union soldier who fell on a Virginia battle field.

BEN BUTLER has been sued by the National Soldier's Home, of Massachusetts, for $15,000, it being alleged that he, while Treasurer of the Institution, failed to account to his successor for that amount.

The deadlock in the Tennessee Legislature was broken on Thursday by an adjournment sine die. The seven Republican Senators who had been locked up in a room at one of the hotels, were released.

A WASHINGTON correspondent who was on duty in that city when Lincoln was shot into office, recalls the fact that by the 1st of April all Democrats had been removed from office and their places filled with Republicans.

The commissions of but three Kentucky postmasters holding Presidential offices will expire before the meeting of the next Congress—that of the postmaster at Bowling Green, on the 14th of May, and those of the postmasters at Lebanon and Lancaster, on the 14th of next October.

DERING Postmaster Vilas' first month as head of the Postoffice Department there have been commissioned four hundred and fifty Postmasters, and more than one hundred commissions of Postmasters at what are Presidential postoffices have been prepared for the approval of the President.

MR. W. L. FRICH, of Vanceburg, who has been favorably named as a Republican candidate for State Senator, in this district, has declined to allow his name to be used in that connection. In a letter on the subject, written to the Republican, he says: "I have no political ambitions to satisfy or aspirations to gratify. My Republicanism is unwavering. The national defeat has not in the least weakened my Republican views. I think the defeat we have endured will purge the party of such drifts as we stand very much in need of getting rid of."

MEAN MEN.
(Robert G. Ingersoll.)

The meanest man is, just in that proportion he considers himself the best of any woman. It took thousands of years for a woman to get up from the condition of slavery to her present state. I hate a strong man, who will pretend to give his heart to a woman and hold on to his pocket book. I believe in the institution of marriage. I would rather live on earth with the woman I love, and the world full of trouble, than live in heaven with only men. I believe in the republicanism of the female. Democracy of home, and that the wife has every right the husband has, and no more. If your child has got to get up early in the morning it is just as easy to wake it with a kiss as with a club. Let any parent about to whip his child have his photograph taken in the act, showing his passionate vulgar and the dumpled face of the child. Then let him think, if that child should die, how sweet it would be to sit on his grave and look at the picture.

THE Union League.
NEW YORK, April 11.—Over 600 members attended the meeting of the Union League.

The gathering was for the purpose of reaffirming the principles upon which the club started, and one of those was that loyalty to the Union should be made a condition of eligibility for membership. After a vigorous discussion in regard to the resolutions adopted at the last meeting in regard to political qualification Col. Legrand B. Cannon offered the following:

"Resolved, That the club express the hope that the admissions will not report for admission the name of any person whose views on public matters do not in their opinion agree with those of the republican party as herebefore expressed."

The independent republicans and democrats vigorously opposed the resolution. They declared that the constitution of the club only required loyalty to the government. Cannon's resolution, however, was adopted, on about sixty members voting against it. The effect is that no democrat need hereafter apply for membership.

Freilinghuyesen Dying.
NEWARK, N. J., April 11.—Ex-secretary of state, Freilinghuyesen, is failing rapidly.

He became very restless during the night and he has grown worse. His physicians announced in a bulletin that he was sleeping quietly under the effect of an anesthetic. Frederick Freilinghuyesen said there was no hope of his father's recovery. He cannot be aroused to consciousness. He may linger a few days or only a few hours. Mr. Freilinghuyesen became conscious at one time but he was so weak and his condition changed so often that it was thought he might die very shortly.

Wants a Pardon.
TORONTO, Ont., April 11.—Dr. Cross, better known as "the dynamite doctor," who was sent to Kingston penitentiary for three years a few days ago for shooting and killing A. Hamilton at Orillia last fall, is making an effort to have his sentence reprieved. His friends have written to Mr. Hamilton, and a favorable reply is expected. He claims the murder was justifiable homicide, as he shot the man in self-defense in a house of ill fame where he was arrested on a charge of shooting a woman.

Crosse has a wife living in Chicago to whom he wrote on his way to the penitentiary.

The Rescue Abandoned.
BREMENHOLM, Pa., April 11.—The prospects of recovering the bodies of the victims of the Raven Run mine disaster are poorer now than at any time since the occurrence of the accident. The crash in the mine in the vicinity of the cave has become so serious that the rescuers have been compelled to quit work, and nothing is being done toward recovering the bodies. The mine inspectors have decided that the mine in its present condition is unsafe. It is impossible to tell when the work of searching for the bodies can be resumed.

Alfred Layman, who lives near Shelbyville, Ind., whose mental suicide was reported several days ago, has recovered, but has lost his mind. He was found over near Hartsville, in the adjoining county, standing in the City river, engaged in laughing himself, so he said. He will be sent to the asylum.

David Davis, a coal miner living near Coshocton, O., went hunting with an old army musket, which he accidentally dropped in the river, and the barrel became filled with mud and water. In attempting to discharge it, the barrel burst tearing out one of David's eyes, and almost scalding him. A large splinter of the gun stock was driven through his lip into his mouth. His injuries are very serious and may prove fatal.

The contention between the democratic and republican members of the Tennessee senate resulted in the abject surrender of the former and their agreement to an adjournment. A democrat, who sympathized with the republican members during their siege and kept them advised of all that was going on, was assaulted by a deputy-sergeant-at-law, but the law was repulsed and badly wounded. The republican members who resisted the attempted outrage by the democrats were unharmed and escaped.

From the Bloody Ground.
TOLLESON, KY.

DR. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, Ohio.—I keep the largest stock of medicines of any store in Lewis county, with the exception of a drug store at Vanceburg, our county seat, and am selling a great deal of your PERUNA and MANALIN.

It is giving the best satisfaction of any medicine that I ever handled. In one case the constable for the precinct, has been very sick and low spirited for a long time. For several years he has tried all the doctors here, and we have some good ones, and they did him no good. After much persuasion I sold him two bottles of PERUNA and MANALIN. He took half of the medicine. I could see a great change in him, and now he is as sound a man apparently as he was in this vicinity, and he says he is entirely well. He is a number one man and is highly respected. He is satisfied that your medicine saved his life, after all the doctors and all medicines had failed. Being unacquainted with you, I refer you to John Shillito & Co., Alton, Pinckard & Co., and other business houses of Cincinnati.

Beef Contract Mudlarks—After Miss Sweet's Scalp—A Female Office-Broker—Personal Mention—Topics of the Times—News Notes.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—A Washington special charged that Paymaster General Smith, of the navy, had favored Mr. Austin P. Brown, in the matter of contracts for supplying beef and pork at a time when those articles were highest in market; that instead of the delivery of the supplies contracted for, Brown was given extensions and permitted to delay until pork had dropped in price from $10.50 to $8.50 per barrel and beef had declined in the same ratio; that then Brown was allowed to deliver his supplies at the high figures named in the contracts, and that he got about $50,000 more for what he furnished than the same quantities could at the time have been bought for in open market. Paymaster General Smith, after reading it carefully, said: "That is an outrage." He added that he intended to ask for an immediate investigation, as all the records were in his office and they would clear him. Gen. Smith said that a contract was made with Mr. Brown, who was the lowest responsible bidder. The supplies were not delivered immediately, because they were not all needed. The supplies were taken as required, and in this way they were always fresh. Gen. Smith said that he had nothing to do with the market fluctuations; that the contract was regular and legitimate. He said further that he knew such an attack was to be made upon him. A reporter called upon Mr. Austin Brown, who said it was true about the contract, the increase of amount to be supplied, and the extension of time, but he maintained that the transaction was regular. Everything, he said, was done for the benefit of the government. He was awarded the contract because he was the lowest bidder, he said, and his figure was so low that the amount was increased. Prices went both down and up, but he delivered supplies when called upon. He declared that his contract was legitimate, and he carried it out to the letter. He denied that there was any fraud or collusion. He did not clear $50,000. He only made $10,000 or $15,000. Gen. Smith's friends say the attack upon him was instigated by a party who wants to succeed him.

After Miss Sweet's Scalp.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—At the white house entire ignorance of Miss Sweet's case, officially speaking, is professed. It is certain that the president has not, as yet, given any attention to the matter. Miss Sweet's telegraphic protest was sent at once to the pension bureau, like all other routine correspondence. There is an impression quite strong that Gen. Black acted without the knowledge of the president in this particular instance. Secretary Lamar some time ago authorized Gen. Black, in a general way, to exercise his discretion in regard to western appointments and changes. Under this authority the request for Miss Sweet's resignation was issued. A prominent civil service reformer, who is an intimate friend of the president, said: "The president is, as yet, in no way responsible for anything that has been done in the matter; he had no information as to what was contemplated, and the time had not arrived for him to take action. Nothing can be done without the president's approval, and to suppose that he will suspend Miss Sweet and designate her successor without reason is to suspect him of treason to his principles and a breach of faith and promise, of which there is no just ground for believing him capable. If Miss Sweet is suspended, it will be because they are good and sufficient reasons. If there are no such reasons, she will remain undisturbed."

A Lady Office-Broker.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Appointment Clerk Higgins has found out that a young lady employed in the treasury department has for nearly two years given one-half of her monthly salary, $42.50, to a lady outside the department. She was married in childhood, and offered to give one-half of her salary to anyone who would secure her a position in the treasury. A lady possessed of influence and high social standing obtained this position as a favor to herself, for the applicant, and has regularly taken half of the pay without ever showing any compunctions over the disproportionate bargain.

Personal Mention.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Deputy Winter Smith, of the house of representatives, left for the west. He will be absent one month, during which time he will visit Louisville, Memphis, St. Louis, and Texas.

Ex Senator Stockton, of New Jersey, is in the city. It is rumored that the president desires him to accept a foreign mission.

Charles P. Chuteau and family, of St. Louis, who have been at Old Point Comfort for several weeks, are here. They will leave for the west tomorrow.

Through the efforts of Senator Plumbo, pensions have been obtained for Jacob Herz, of Lawrence, John H. Thomas, of Emporia, and Richard Puffer, of Chetopa, Kan.

Attorney General Garland has rendered a decision in which he holds that the Winnebago and Chippewa Creek reservation belongs to the Sioux Indians by treaty of 1858 and that the order of President Arthur, of February 27, 1885, throwing said reservation open to settlement, was illegal and void.

A singular inequality in the new tariff laws has been discovered in the treasury department. Formerly the duty on pens was assessed at valorem as only steel pens were imported in any quantity. Under the new laws the duty was changed to twelve cents per gross on "metallic" pens. Under this change dealers can import valuable gold pens in large quantities with a duty of only twelve cents per gross.

General Terry telegraphs the war department that the report that northwestern Indians have crossed the Canadian border is untrue.

Postmaster General Vilas has appointed Chief Inspector Sharpe, Inspector Headman and Mr. Van Hook, of the treasury department, a committee to confer with the supervising architect of the treasury relative to plans for new postoffice buildings throughout the country. The law requires these plans to be approved by the postmaster general and heretofore this has been done without question and as a matter of course. Postmaster General Vilas proposes to inquire into the suitability of plans for postoffice buildings before approving them.
